MAYOR OF LONDON

Transport for London

A unique way to experience London

The River Thames is London's historic highway, uniting the city's past and present. How better to experience London's world-famous sights, ancient and modern, than from the comfort of a river boat?

Why not join in the bicentenary celebrations of Trafalgar and witness a symbolic recreation of Nelson's waterborne funeral procession from Greenwich to Whitehall on September 16.

Take advantage of the lunch or dinner cruises and cruise down the Thames whilst enjoying the company of friends or family, or hire your own boat for a special event or party.

Two commuter services operate throughout the year, connecting places as far apart as Chelsea and the Isle of Dogs with locations in central London offering a stress-free journey to and from work.

Whatever your requirements, this comprehensive guide from London River Services tells you everything you need to know about travelling in London by river boat.

Mobility-impaired access

The majority of river boats are accessible, and most newer river craft have dedicated wheelchair spaces. Please contact individual operators directly for comprehensive accessibility information. See beneath timetables for contact details.

Staff are always on hand to offer help in boarding and disembarking from river craft. However, it is advisable for mobility-impaired groups to provide advance notice to the operator concerned of their intended travel. For further information, please call 020 7941 2400.

LRS is making significant improvements to access at Greenwich pier, where the first 'ramp-rider' in Europe is expected to open for the Summer, providing easier access to and from the pier.

For a more leisurely cruise, there are many services, reaching destinations from Hampton Court in the west to Greenwich and the Thames Barrier in the east. There are also numerous lunch and dinner cruises available. The guide also contains information on places of interest to visit along the river, and contact details for operators offering boats for hire.
